TYPHUS ANTITOXINE. Washington, Nov. 30 .- Commercial Agent Sawter reports to the state de-partment from Glauchau, Germany, on recent experiments by Professors Pfeipper and Kallo with "typhus-antitoxine."
If the hopes of the professors are realized medical science will receive a most valuable accession through their discoveries. The experimenters believe that typhus germs like cholera germs, may be traced back to the existence in the blood of anti-typhoid substances. The typhoid baccillus is known to exist largely in well and spring water and the fact that they are frequently the direct causes of infection is recognized by bacteriologists. Consequently the experiments, the report sets forth, tend to trace the existence of these germs, and, by locating them, preserving numberless lives. It is shown that between the age of 20 and 25, persons are most prone to the 25, persons are most prone to the development of the typhus gems. It is claimed that the "typhus-antitoxine" can be quickly inoculated, proving of great benefit, especially in time of epidemic. The entire results of the experiments
